Merry Christmas 2020!

2020 was a challenging year to say the least. At the beginning of the year London wasn't even on the radar, but an exciting opportunity enticed us to make the move. That, and Paris was a big disappointment for us.

We got some skiing done before the first lockdown. March, April and May were spent in our cozy little Paris apartment. In June we did a little tourism in France and in July we did some fast and furious house hunting in London.

August was supposed to be non-stop vacation, but Lucas tore a ligament and unfortunately is still recovering from that. But we were able to see family and friends in Spain and Wisconsin though. Luckily everyone is staying healthy and sane.

September was the actual move across the channel. And here we are in November, mostly settled in London, but back under lockdown again :(

Sam now works for the World Nuclear Association as director general. Eric continues to work remotely for Data Directions. We plan to be here at least five years so that gives you plenty of time to visit us!
